

Andover's Luke Weber '18 (pictured), Amanda Hinds '19, and Julian King '19 are three of the five Andover residents studying abroad at Proctor this term.

Andover Students Study Abroad

Scott Allenby, Proctor Academy

Six Andover students (Nelson Makechnie '19, Samantha Parkman '19, Betsy Abrahamson '19, Luke Weber '18, Julian King '19, and Amanda Hinds '19) are studying abroad this winter on three of Proctor's off-campus programs.

Betsy is spending the Winter Term in Aix en Provence, France with Proctor's European Art Classroom program where she is studying art history throughout Europe, creating her own art, and enjoying communal living with two faculty members and seven other students. You can read updates from Betsy on Proctor's website: <http://blogs.proctoracademy.org/author/european-art-classroom>.

Amanda, Luke, and Julian are studying throughout the American Southwest and Mexico on Proctor's Mountain Classroom program.

See Abroad on page 35

AndoverBeacon.com February 2018 735-6099

SHARE TOYS WITH OTHER KIDS

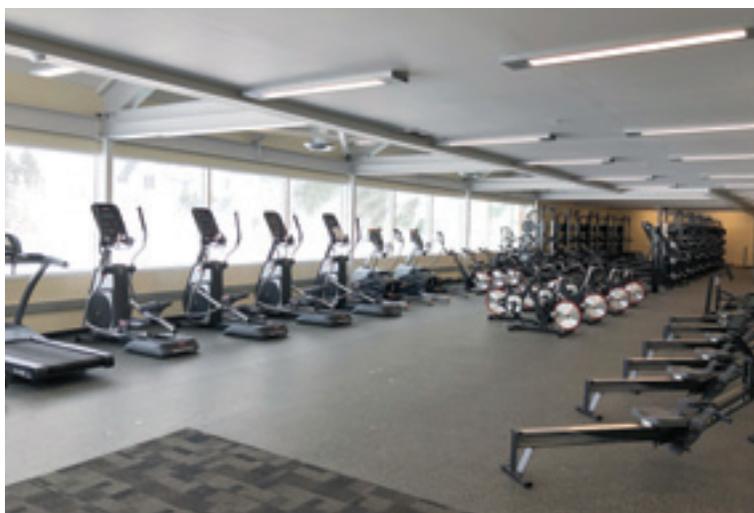

AMAZING!

Fiah

A sample page from the AE/MS First Grade's book-- Making the World a Better Place. The book has over 20 pages of drawings and illustrations that were created by the children. The book has been published on line and can be viewed at the school website: www.aemseagles.org. Parent, Adam Jones assisted with the creation of the online version.

The AE/MS Eagles Girls Basketball Team gives it their all against Franklin on January 24. Top photo: Lilly Menard, Kalee Keyser and Olivia Glines. Bottom left: Kalee Keyser, Ella Makechnie. Bottom Right: Lilly Menard. Photos: Brendaen Makechnie

New fitness center is part of extensive renovations done at the Farrell Field House at Proctor Academy.

Proctor Opens New Fitness Center and Gym

Scott Allenby, Proctor Academy

Proctor Academy celebrated the opening of its newly renovated gymnasium and fitness center in January in the Farrell Field House. While not much has changed from the outside, once you step foot in the building, there is a world of change that has taken place. In an effort to continue to provide its faculty, staff, and students with ways to stay healthy and active throughout the year, the new fitness center is large enough to accommodate teams training as well as provide space for individuals to workout. Features of the space include

See Gym on page 39